Love Your Food, Love Your Farmer

Three restaurants to host their most loyal farmers and a lucky couple for Valentine's Day dinner

DENVER, CO. (January 17, 2018) - During Valentine's Day week, Grower's Organic is playing matchmaker between three local restaurants and the Colorado farms who grew produce for them last year. By connecting the chefs with the farmers, Grower's hopes to garner attention to the local farms that are instrumental in providing high-quality food to restaurants that are well- loved.

The Kitchen, Urban Farmer, and Arcana will each host a special "Love Your Farmer" dinner at their restaurants to show their appreciation to three farms— Field to Fork, White Mountain Farm, and Fossil Creek Farm. In the spirit of spreading knowledge about organic produce and sharing a good meal, there will be a chance for anyone to win a $100 gift certificate for a dinner on the same night to meet and greet with both the farmers and the chefs.

For the month leading up to this special matchmaking meal, all three restaurants and Grower's Organic will collect entries from the public for the gift certificates. To enter, visit one of the participating restaurants and fill out an entry card or enter online with the entry form on Grower's Organic home page.

"Farmers work so hard, from cultivation to growing to harvest, and sometimes the last time they see their food is when it's loaded onto one of our trucks," Emily Kutosky, Sales and Marketing Manager at Grower's Organic commented, "rarely do they have the option to taste it or see it on a plate prepared by professional chefs, so it's our time to show them that beautiful things are made with their produce."

The Kitchen will host Fossil Creek Farm at their restaurant on Saturday, February 17 at 7 p.m., Arcana will host White Mountain Farm on Friday, February 16 at 7 p.m, and Urban Farmer will host Field to Fork on a date still to be determined that week. That date will be announced on Grower's Organic and Urban Farmer's social media in the coming days.
